

Names of Faculty/Staff: Dr. Evelyn O. Mahero

Designation/Rank: Lecturer of English Language and Linguistics

Laikipia University: School of Humanities and Development Studies

Email: emahero@laikipia.ac.ke

Educational Background:

PhD in Applied Linguistics. Laikipia University, Kenya (2015)

MA in English Language and Linguistics. Egerton University

BEd. (Honours) Egerton University

Brief auto-biography of the Faculty/Staff

Dr. Evelyn Mahero attended Egerton University for her undergraduate studies where she pursued Bed Arts and graduated with first class honors specializing in Literature, English Language and Linguistics. She began her academic career as a Secondary School teacher of English language and, Literature in Kenya. During this time, Evelyn became an outstanding teacher and also pursued her Master of Arts degree in English Language and linguistics. She became a part-time Lecturer in Laikipia university, where she studied for her PhD in Applied linguistics and was employed in the position of lecturer. Dr. Mahero works in Laikipia University to date.

Selected Publications

1. Mubia, M., Yieke, F., Mahero, E. O. & Ndegwa, F. (2014). Utilization of interlanguage strategies by multilingual learners in nursery school classroom in Kenya. International Journal of Social Sciences and Entrepreneurship, 1 (11), 23-46. (ISSN 2307-6305)
2. Mahero, E., Khasandi, V., Ndegwa, F., Mubia, M. & Wakoko, M. (2014). The Samburu Traditional Communicative Ornamentation: Identity and FGM in Kenya. International Journal of Social Sciences and Entrepreneurship, 1 (11), 47-60. (ISSN 2307-6305)

3. Khasandi, V., Wakoko, M., Mugo J., Mahero E., & Ndegwa, F. (2012) What an old man sees while sitting a young man cannot see while standing: Utilizing senior citizens to achieve peace. International Journal of Research in Social Sciences. (ISSN 2307-227X)
4. Khasandi V., Mahero, E., & Ndegwa F. (2012) Ethically Rewarding the Winner in Traditional Leisure Competitions among the Luhya of Western Kenya

Research Interest

Language and Linguistics, Gender and power in Communication